

Abstract

A method for transfer of sound source signals relates to installing an insulator in a socket adapter, wherein the insulator is able to drive a detective circuit for detecting whether a sound source plug is inserted in the socket adapter. When any sound source 5 plug is inserted in the socket adapter, the rear IC device executes the process to transfer the signals from sound sources.